recommend to investors the
First Mortgage Bonds
OF THE CENTRAL
PACIFIC RR. CO.,
This Company is constructing under the patronage of the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT,
the Western end of the Great National Railway across the Continent
Their line will extend from Sacramento, California, across the Sierra Nevadas to the California State line traversing the richest and most populous section of California, and thence through the great mining regions of the Territories to the vicinity of Salt Lake City
It forms the sole Western link of the only route to the Pacific, which is adopted by Congress and aided by the issue of UNITED STATES BONDS
Their road is already completed equipped and running for 94 miles from Sacramento to within 12 miles of the summit of the Sierras and a large amount of the work of Grading Tunnelling, &c beyond that point has been accomplished
The FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS of the Company afford unusual inducements of Safety and Profit to Investors, for the following among other reasons viz.
First The rate of interest is Six per Cent on Gold, payable semi annually in the City of New York
Second The Principal is payable in Gold at maturity
Third The cost of the Bonds, Ninety five per Cent and accrued interest, is Ten Per Cent less than cost of the cheapest Six Per Cent Gold Bearing Bonds of the Government.
Fourth The United States Government provides nearly half the amount necessary to build the entire road, and looks mainly to a small percentage on the future traffic for repayment
Fifth Owing to this liberal provision, accompanied with Extensive Grants of Public Lands, by which the Government fosters this great national enterprise, its success is rendered certain and its financial stability is altogether independent of the contingencies which attend ordinary railroad enterprises
Sixth The Security of its First Mortgage Bonds is therefore ample, and their character for safety and reliability is equal to that only of the obligations of the Government itself
Seventh The net earnings of the completed portions are already largely in excess of the interest obligations which the Company will incur on twice the distance and are steadily increasing, rendering the uninterrupted payment of the Interest absolutely certain
Eighth At the present rate of Gold they pay nearly 8½ per cent per annum, on the amount invested
The Bonds are issued in denominations of $1 000 with semi annual Gold Coupons attached, payable in New York and are offered for the present at 95 per cent and accrued interest (in currency) from January 1st.
Orders may be forwarded to us direct or through the principal Banks and Bankers in all parts of the country
Remittances may be made in drafts on New York or in Legal Tender Notes National Bank Notes or other funds current in the city and the Bonds will be forwarded to any address by Express, free of charge Inquiries for further particulars by mail or otherwise will receive prompt attention

PHILADELPHIA, May 20

Orders were issued today by the Mayor for a strict enforcement of the liquor law passed recently by the State Legislature — The law forbids the selling of liquor, ale, &c, from midnight to sunrise and also for bids totally near sale on Sundays

The law gives the police power to enter all places where liquors are sold and make arrests, and provides for the taking of oaths of drunken persons, as to the persons who sold them liquor, and or which oaths of said sellers are to be punished

The Railroads and Manufactures of Maine.

The Boston Journal in an article upon the new era of manufacturing and railroad enterprise which Maine is now entering has the following statements and figures We presume they are generally correct—although its statements in regard to the rate of progress of some of the new roads are rather in advance of the facts The writer says

At the present time all the interests of Maine are eminently prosperous, with the exception of the ship building interest which is depressed as compared with former years

RAILROADS

Two additions have been made to the railroads since 1860, at which time the aggregate cost of 472 miles lying within the State was $16 557 385 In 1866 the mileage of railroads was about 500 miles, costing $18,498,822 or an average of $36,315 per mile To these it is fair to add the Portland and Montreal line, from the New Hampshire State line to Island Pond, a distance of 71 miles, built entirely by the capital of Maine The following is a list of existing railroads in Maine

	Miles
Androscoggin (Brunswick to Farmington)	69
Atlantic and St Lawrence (Portland to Island Pond)	149
Bangor and Oldtown	12
Calais and Baring	6
Great Falls and South Berwick	110
Portland and Kennebec	11
Lovewy's Island (Baring to Princeton)	8
Moosehead	15
Oxford Central (Mechanic Falls to Sumner)	5
Portland Saco and Portsmouth	18
York and Cumberland (Portland to Saco river)	110
Maine Central (Danville Junction to Bangor)	173

The following is a list of new ente prises now in progress

European and North American (Bangor to St. John)	194
Piscataquis (Bangor to Dover)	31
Winterport (Bangor to Winterport)	13
Belfast and Moosehead (Belfast to Newport)	45
Newport and Dexter	15
Somerset (Waterville to Solon)	28
Knox and Lincoln (Bath to Rockland)	45
Maine Central Extension (Danville to Portland)	28
Portland and Rochester (Saco River to N H line)	28
Portland and Ogdensburg (Buxton to State line)	30

Work is now in rapid progress on the line of the European and North American Railway The work of laying rails will commence about the first of June, and be completed to Milford by the 4th of July, 15 miles, and extended 30 miles the present year, reaching the tannery village of Winn 55 miles from Bangor in all, this year

The Piscataquis road branches off from the European and North American Railway at Milford, reaching the slate quarries at Brownville, a distance of 30 miles, to which road, as a branch of the European and North American Railway, the city of Bangor has authority to loan its credit for $500,000 and the work will commence as soon as the subscriptions are filled up to $400 000 Bangor has already voted to loan its credit for $1,000,000 to the European and North American Railway and this aid, with the $400,000 already expended in the line, will enable the enterprising contractors, Messrs. Pierce and Blaisdell, to complete the first 55 miles of the road. These contractors build the entire line from Bangor St. John A large force is now at work on the St John end of the line, and it is believed that the line may be carried through within three years, in case the expected aid is obtained from Congress by the payment of the claims of Maine and Massachusetts against the General Government, for which a bill was unanimously reported by the Senate committee on Foreign Relations, at the recent session of the Fortieth Congress. Maine, in addition, has appropriated a valuable public domain to aid the construction of this road beyond Winn, subject to a deficit due Massachusetts of $160,000

All the rock work is done from Bangor to Oldtown, and the piers across the Stillwater river at Orono, of over 600 feet in width are in place, also the piers across the Penobscot at Oldtown The wood work for these bridges is already prepared and will be put in position at an early day

The length of this line in Maine is 110 miles, and in New Brunswick 84 miles.—The most expensive sections are at each terminus. The 15 miles from St. John, westward, cost three times the average of the residue of the work The Government of New Brunswick donate $10,000 per mile as the work progresses, to be paid in gold The cost of road in New Brunswick is $40 per rod; or one half the cost in the United States.

Surveys are in progress on the line of the Winterport Railroad. The line from Newport to Dexter is leased to the Maine Central Road, and the capital is provided for its construction The citizens and towns on the line have subscribed [illegible] and subscribed to enterprise 20 per cent at their valuation, to the stock of the road, [illegible] Moosehead Lake Co. The City of Bangor has [illegible]

eral towns have already voted in favor — Work is to commence on this line as soon as the amount of $300,000 is provided

The Somerset Road, (Waterville to Carratunk Falls,) is to be built by the people on its route and a subscription of $400,000 is already assured, and several towns have already filled

From the Kennebec river to Rockland, a contest on the question of route delays progress on the Knox and Lincoln Road The city of Bath has subscribed $123,000 to its stock, and voted a loan of its credit for $600 000, on condition that it shall take the Bath route

The question of extending the Maine Central Line into Portland from Danville Junction, depends for the present upon the action of the Grand Trunk Line, but the strong local support of the rich towns in Cumberland county, lying west of the Grand Trunk Road, insures this extension before many years, if not at once

From Portland west, two new lines are in contemplation, one, reaching the State line at Fryeburg, up the Saco valley, to extend thence across New Hampshire to a connection with the Vermont system of roads reaching east from Montpelier Portland has just voted $600,000 to aid this line, called the Portland and Ogdensburg road

The extension of the Port and and Rochester road now in operation from Portland to the Saco river, a further distance of fourteen miles to Alfred, the shire town of York county, is already assured by the $250 000 voted by the city of Portland A further sum of $450,000 has been voted by Portland, to extend it to the State line

It is confidently expected the the State of Maine, if these roads are carried on by individual municipal credit and capital will extend its aid to the great line to the Aroostook and upper St John the finest agricultural portion of the State at present but partially settled

A most liberal policy has been adopted in reference to manufacturing capital and there is a rapid developement of manufacturing industry

Cities and towns exempt new capital from taxation for a period of ten years At Saco and Biddeford there has been a large increase in manufacturing capital, and about 200,000 spindles are here in operation upon the Saco At Lewiston the capital has been increased from $1,381,000 in 1860, to $3 360 000 in 1866 206 250 cotton spindles are now driven by the water power of the Androscoggin at this place

The last Legislature inaugurated at the last session, a policy looking to a further development of the resources of the State, by providing for a hydrographic survey,

A Commission has been organized, consisting of John A Poor of Portland Chairman, Al D Lockwood of Lewiston and Hannibal Hamlin of Bangor Walter Wells of Portland is Secretary of the Commission, and has entered upon his duties — Engineers will be appointed by the Commission to make accurate surveys and measurements of the capacity of the several rivers of the State, the fall and volume of each river, their lake reservoirs, the supply and constancy of waters of each, and the comparative size of the several river basins of the State

Anecdote and Sentiment

DR DODDRIDGE'S EPIGRAM The following lines which Dr Doddridge wrote on the motto of his family arms, have been much admired, as being expressed in a lively and pointed manner Dr Johnson, when speaking of this epigram pronounced it as one of the finest in the English language "Whilst we live, let us live" was the motto of the family arms, on which the Doctor wrote

Live whilst you live" the epicure would say
And seize the pleasures of the present day
Live whilst you live" the sacred preacher cries
And give to God each moment as it flies
Lord in my views let both united be
I live in pleasure while I live for Thee

WHEELER & LYNDE, PROPRIETORS

WM H WHEELER, EDITOR

Business letters should be addressed to the Publishers, "WHEELER & LYNDE."

TUESDAY, MAY 21, 1867.

The following appeal from the Executive Committee of the National Union Committee will show that the work of promulgating Republican principles and organizing the Republican party in the former rebel States is largely occupying the attention of the Committee, and of our prominent leading men in other States We are called upon to do what we can in aid of this good work, as well as to keep our own lains girded up for the elections of the present year Let every good and true Republican see and comprehend that the work of establishing justice and right in our land will not be fully accomplished until the Republican party is able to control a fair proportion of the southern elections, and thus to protect the friends of liberty within those States

To the Republicans of the Union

The National Union Committee appeals to the Republicans of every State for their assistance and co operation in this auspicious crisis of our country

We deem it of the highest importance that the Republicans of each State should immediately reorganize for the remaining elections of 1867, preparatory to the coming Presidential contest Especially should this organization be immediately effected in those States which have never before recognized as the only just basis of government the equal and inalienable rights of man Not a day should be lost in forming and strengthening within those States a public sentiment in consonance with the principles which underlie the great political organization to which we belong

To this end, we desire to prosecute a systematic and thorough canvass of the Southern States, by the most efficient speakers of both races We would second their efforts by a distribution of documents, enforcing the principles, policy and aims of the Republican party We would call, in every locality where it is possible, meetings for discussion, where those who are with us in principle may learn to act with unity and energy These measures are required to bring out the vote of that large body of Republican Unionists who now render the Southern States a battle field of principle It is the pressing need of the hour that bold, judicious and able men, thoroughly imbued with our creed, should there explain our principles, establish our faithfulness to them, and prove that national greatness and human freedom depend upon the permanent triumph of our cause

Beyond this, it is most essential that we should now establish in these States, Free Thought, Free Speech and a Free Press — Every part of this Republic must be open to the discussion of principles and measures This must be sustained, as a cardinal point in our creed, at any and every hazard Efforts to intimidate the humble and ignorant voter on the part of the Southern planter, must be met with the spirit of freemen, and the determination which a just cause sanctions

In time past, the Republican party has struggled against the unjust reproach of being sectional in its aims and character, though its purposes and its means of effecting them were such as the fathers of the Republic approved It was accused of being governed by selfish motives, and of desiring to aggrandize the North at the expense of the South Its adversaries, having the power to silence and to crush all opposition denied all discussion, and overawed even freedom of thought in fifteen States of the Union It is, therefore, now an imperative duty, which we owe to our party and to ourselves, to embrace the first opportunity of truly representing those States how consistently we have contended for the interests, welfare and freedom of the whole

The overthrow of Slavery and the Rebellion, and the enfranchisement of the freedmen, rendering this overthrow secure and final, have happily vindicated our course and organization but it is necessary to stamp the conviction of our loyalty and fidelity to the right, irrespective of section or race, upon the reconstructed States For the first time in many years, the enthusiastic followers of our flag and confessors of our faith are there, taking part in the popular gatherings, and in many of the Southern States, we have reason to believe that they form a decided majority They are, however, without organization, and lack the cohesion and discipline necessary to success — Three fourths of the Republicans have never voted, and have no practical knowledge of the means whereby the popular will is expressed With many of them the habit is fixed, of rendering implicit obedience to able and dexterous politicians who are implacably hostile to our principles and determined on the prostration of our cause

Our immediate action is, therefore, imperative We cannot delay without imperiling all for which so much has been sacrificed in the past. Confident in our strength in the North, the West, and the Pacific States, we must not forget that we have a great duty to perform toward the loyal and true men of the South

REPUBLICANS! Our appeal is to you, to carry on and sustain the work which a few loyal and true men have so nobly begun — We cannot ask speakers, in addition to giving their time and talents for months to this labor, to defray their own necessary expenses. We cannot print and distribute documents of the character required without a heavy outlay We have no means or reliance except upon the generous spirit of that great party which holds the claims of Humanity and Freedom above all price. The patronage of the Government brought into power by the statesmanship, the courage, and the loyalty of that party, will not aid us in this good work

We must, therefore, appeal directly and personally to you If you are rich, give generously. If poor, send us whatever you can afford The generous purpose and the noble aim sanctify the humblest efforts. At all events, act promptly, and let us feel that the sympathy of the Republican party is with us in our purpose of making this great land the home of true Republican principles, where distinctness of race and color are unknown, and where Liberty, Virtue and Intelligence form the enduring basis of our greatness and prosperity.

Address letters, contributions to Gov MARCUS L. WARD, Chairman and Treasurer, Newark, N. J

[illegible]

A Boston letter to the N Y Post says of the colored people there, that John Oliver (whom Governor Peirpont has appointed a notary public) was a citizen of Boston up to the beginning of the war His wife is the superintendent of the Colored Orphan Asylum in New Orleans Dr J B Smith, a pure black, and a man of considerable executive ability, has gone to New Orleans to organize Baptist churches and schools Wm C Nell, the chronicler of the colored race, is a clerk in the Boston Postoffice He is entitled to the sole credit of breaking up the colored schools in Boston It was predicted and expected that the admission of colored children into our public schools would produce ill feeling, but neither result took place No one thinks of it now There is no more prejudice against negro young folks than against foreign children either among parents or pupils Lewis Hayden (another prominent colored citizen) has long been employed in the office of the Secretary of State in Boston He is a shrewd and active local politician The colored members of the Legislature—Messrs Mitchell and Walker—have acquitted themselves with credit Mr Smith, the noted Boston caterer, has removed to a fine house in Bowdoin street, and at its "warming" there were present representatives of our best citizens including (for in Boston this phrase does include) the members of the city government. Wm Wells Brown the colored author, is at New Orleans, collecting funds for the erection of Harriet Hosmer's freedmen's monument to Lincoln

A WAR DESPATCH CORRECTED During the Southwestern campaign of 1862, Gen Halleck published a dispatch saying, "Gen Pope, with forty thousand men, is thirty miles south of Corinth, pushing the enemy hard He already reports ten thousand prisoners and fifteen thousand stand of arms captured," &c General Pope now denies that he ever sent any such report Instead of being "thirty miles south of Corinth," he was sick in his tent at the date of the dispatch of Gen Halleck, not four miles from the headquarters of the latter at Corinth, and in telegraphic communication with him, and his reports to Halleck were abstracts of accounts received from Rosecrans and Hamilton, who were conducting the pursuit. The dispatch was in fact, based on a report from Rosecrans to this effect "The woods for miles are full of stragglers from the enemy, who are coming in in squads Not less than ten thousand men are thus scattered about, who will come in within a day or two" Or the strength of this Gen Halleck published his famous "ten thousand prisoners" despatch, fathering it upon Gen Pope These statements appear in the supplemental report of the Congressional Committee on the Conduct of War Gen Pope did not correct the matter at the time, for reasons connected with the service

The Richmond Enquirer is jubilant over the release of Jeff Davis and exults as follows "Thank God! the last political prisoner is now free Monday was the brightest day for a re-union of hearts and hands among the people of the several States that has yet dawned upon the country The sun looked down in peculiar brightness, and nature wore its most approving smiles while men were bringing to a close the reign of passion and restoring supremacy of the laws"

If the Enquirer had thought more about suppressing the reign of passion, and restoring the supremacy of the laws when it helped force Virginia to join the rebellion, it would not to day feel so bitterly the terrible results of its crime and folly The rebels would look better in sack cloth and ashes, than in a complaining attitude about northern "passion"

A gentleman from Richmond states that the despatches of the Associated Press reporter there to Northern papers, in relation to the recent riots, are colored in favor of the rebels He says that the riot which occurred at the time of the trial of the steam fire engines in Richmond was caused by the remarks of a negro observer, who, in his joy on the success of the Richmond steamer over the Wilmington steamer, exclaimed "Hurrah for Richmond! She can beat old Wilmington any day" This the negro said playfully in the hearing of a Wilmington "b hoy," who immediately knocked the negro down Then followed the riot, which the Associated Press reporter terms a "negro riot"

The majority of the Legislative Committee on the License Law Question, urge that a License Law "will put the sale of liquor into the hands of "respectable and honest men" By this, it would seem that they do not regard the present dealers as "respectable and honest men." If the friends of a prohibitory law had made such an insinuation as this, they would have been charged with slander

PETROLEUM AS FUEL. Some three or four weeks ago we gave our readers an account of our visit to the U S gunboat Pawnee, at the Navy Yard here, on which crude petroleum is being used as fuel instead of coal Since then the inventors have tried a number of experiments with their apparatus, making such improvements as were from time to time suggested The fire is now far more perfect than at our first visit, and next week the final trial at the wharf is to take place, after which a trip at sea is expected

We shall endeavor to give a full account of the final report, and meantime feel certain that our first impression of the immense value of the invention was well founded, and will be strengthened by the final experiments —(Boston Bulletin.

Sir Roderick Murchison is still recuperated of the death of the story of Dr Livingstone's death, and has relented a little from his incredulity. [illegible]

The oldest person in New Hampshire is reported, by the Manchester Mirror, to be Flora Stewart, a colored woman. Her reputed age is 120 years, and there is data to prove that she is at least 119 years old She was the slave of the grandfather of Samuel Wilson Simpson, himself now 80 years of age, whose mother at his birth was nursed by Flora, yet the old woman is full of life and vivacity Her memory is unimpaired, and she reads easily without spectacles

Dr Schenck can explain to patients very correctly the stage of their disease, and how to use his medicines, namely, his Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills, without the use of the Respirometer but he can tell exactly how far the lungs are gone, and what part also, whether it is Tuberculous, Pulmonary, Bronchial or Dyspeptic Consumption, or whether it is merely an incipient throat and catarrh, or from Liver Complaint.

His medicines have full directions, so any one can take them without seeing him, but if they live near by and are well enough, it is best to see him All three of his medicines are required in nearly every case of lung disease, for it is impossible to cure Consumption unless the stomach and liver are kept in perfect order. To get lungs in a healing condition the stomach must be cleansed, and an appetite for good rich food created, so as to make good blood, before the lungs will begin to heal, then the chills and night sweats will stop, and the expectoration become free and easy

He keeps a full supply of medicines at his rooms, which can be had at all times.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, each $1.50 per bottle, or $7,50 the half dozen. Mandrake Pills, 25 cents per box.

Matters in Washington

Encouraging Reports from the Freedmen's Bureau in North Carolina.

General Swaine's Orders for the Maintenance of Quiet in Mobile.

NEW YORK ITEMS!

WASHINGTON, May 19.

Ch of Justice Chase has thus far nominated about one third of the entire number of Registers in Bankruptcy, or those for the Eastern and Northern States, and also for Georgia and Louisiana. He has addressed a letter to the various District Judges, informing them that if any of the nominees are known not to possess the necessary qualifications for performing the duties of the office they at liberty to withhold the appointment, the furnishing of names or recommendations by him not being conclusive, and not binding on the Judges. For this reason the names of the nominees have not been furnished to the press.

General Sickles has been brevetted Major General in the regular army for gallant and meritorious service at the battle of Gettysburg in 1863.

WASHINGTON, May 20.

Charles Sumner has written out his speech in favor of the Russian-American treaty, and it will soon be published.

Gen. Miles, Assistant Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau in North Carolina, in his report for April, represents a satisfactory condition of affairs in that State. Although much destitution still prevails, the future prospects are encouraging. The farmers are working to the fullest possible extent of their resources, and large tracts of land which have to until now remained forests or which have for years remained idle have been taken up by energetic freedmen who with their operations show conclusively by the results already obtained that the great experiment of free labor is a success. As a general rule, contracts are strictly observed by both the parties interested, and complaint of wrongs or injuries are seldom heard.—Gen. Miles also says:

"Initiatory steps have been taken towards giving colored people their rights of representation, which already gives evidence of its influence in the development of their manhood in a quiet manner, indicating their position, unattended by any evidence of rashness, but with an earnestness of purpose characterized by moderation and proper reasoning."

MOBILE, May 20.

Gen. Swaine has issued an order assuming the maintenance of public order in Mobile, and suspending the police administration. Special policemen or members of the old force will be employed when necessary. Violations of the public peace and of existing orders will be dealt with by the military.—Out of door congregations after nightfall are prohibited. When a public demonstration is intended, notice must be filed in the Mayor's office in season to procure the presence of such a police force as may be essential. Individuals will be held to strict responsibility for the publication of articles recommending or inciting a riot, using incendiary language, or for disorder in places of public entertainment.

Adjourned to Thursday evening next at 7½ o'clock.

FIRE IN BREWER. Yesterday morning, about six o'clock, the engine-house connected with the steam planing-mill belonging to Messrs. Hall, Holyoke and others of Brewer, near the bridge, was mostly destroyed by fire, the steam engine being saved. Loss $800 or $1000. One of the steamers went over and aided to save the main building.

This reminds us to say again that the town of Brewer has no fire engines, and that her people are obliged to depend upon Bangor aid for the extinguishment of fires, without being able to reciprocate in any degree so far as fire apparatus is concerned. Is this just fair? Brewer might at an expense of a few thousand dollars obtain a good department for herself, and (being then able to reciprocate) secure much more help from us in large fires than she now receives. We propose that if Brewer will procure one good steamer (to be sent to our aid in case of emergencies) Bangor shall station one of our reserve hand engines on that side of the river—Brewer to raise a company for it—and permit its use either at the Ferry or at Brewer Village. We should thus have a Bangor and Brewer Fire Department—much to the benefit and safety of both places. If the town of Brewer will not do this, there should be a "Village Corporation" established—or, what would be better still, have that part of Brewer which borders the river annexed to Bangor, and come in as the Eighth Ward of our city.

TEMPERANCE. Adjourned meeting of the City Temperance Alliance at City Hall this (Tuesday) evening at 7½ o'clock. Let there be a Grand Rally. The amendment to the law to be voted on the last Monday in June will be considered. All are interested—ladies especially.

—Officer McLaughlin arrested Henry Grant and Frank Bracelin, yesterday, on charge of stealing a boat from the vessel of Capt. O. M. Gray, on Saturday night about two o'clock. They were on board the vessel and stole a pair of oars and then took the boat to Winterport where they offered her for sale to Stephen and Otis Colson for $10—the boat being worth $80. The officer found the boat, had her towed up by the tug, and searched out Bracelin on board a vessel at this city, and arrested him, and made him come up where Grant was at Hampden, who was also arrested. They were both arraigned and will be examined tomorrow. They are under bal. of $600 each.

—The water in our river is falling about six inches in every twenty-four hours. Rafting was commenced at the Pond Cove Boom this day. Some 40 to 50 men, from 14 to 20 years old, left here to-day to assist superintendent Hamlin at rafting. There were about [illegible] men left here yesterday for the same purpose. Rafting will be pushed forward as fast as the state of the tide will permit.

ROBBERY. The office of Q. B. Abbot, Esq., agent for the Bangor and Piscataquis Slate Company, was broken open on Sunday night. The rascals secured a few stamps and a little scrip, hardly enough to pay even a small rogue for running the risk of a trip to Thomaston.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE. Henry C. Wright, of Boston, will lecture Wednesday evening, May 22d, at Pioneer Chapel, to begin at fifteen minutes before 8 o'clock. Subject—THE BIRTH, MISSION AND DESTINY OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLIC. Admission free. 2t.

—The "search and seizure" on Broad-st. mentioned in our paper of yesterday (Monday) as having taken place on the then yesterday, which would be Sunday, took place in fact on Saturday. The person who reported it wrote the paragraph on Sunday.

—SARGENTS' VARIETIES. It will be seen by advertisement that there is to be a varied and novel entertainment at Norumbega Hall, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week, by a troupe of gymnasts, comedians and vocalists.

SMITH'S COMBINATION SHOW is to make its entrance into our city on Monday, June 3d, giving an entertainment in the afternoon and another in the evening.

—The timber for the railroad bridge across the Kenduskeag has arrived below, and will be brought up soon and the work of fitting it to the piers commenced. The work of excavation on the west side is nearly finished, and the buildings on the wharf have been removed.

—The Congregational Church and Society of Oldtown have renewed their call to Rev. H. A. Shorey, of East Orrington, to become their Pastor, with a salary of $1000 and a house to live in. It is understood that Mr. Shorey will commence his labors with them in a few weeks.

—One of the Durham horse-stabbing cases is now on trial before the Supreme Court for Androscoggin County. Rufus Larrabee is indicted on charge of killing two horses belonging to John Miller of Durham, on the night of Sept. 27, 1866. The evidence, as The Journal says, is entirely circumstantial, going to show that Larrabee perpetrated the dastardly crime in revenge for an indictment for stealing a harness, which he believed that Miller procured.

—The Dover Observer says the wet weather has prevented the farmers from sowing the grain as early as usual this month.—The rains have caused the grass to take an upward start, and the fields show a beautiful green. It is thought there will be an abundance of hay this season—which, with the present price of hay, is a comforting assurance.

—The ice-bergs from Baffin's Bay and the St. Lawrence ice have made a general descent this season upon the Atlantic coast, north and east of us—and this accounts in part for our continued cold and stormy weather. The Machias Republican says that letters received from Mulgrave, N. S., state that the Magdalen fishing fleet had arrived at that port, but were unable to proceed on account of the ice. One great obstacle to the successful prosecution of the business is the ice, which is driven from the Gulf of St. Lawrence, by the northeast winds that are common to that coast, into the narrow Strait of Canso, oftentimes delaying the vessels until the close of the fishing season, which ends about the tenth of May.

—Launched, at Stockton, May 18th, from the yard of Messrs. Mudgett, Libby and Griffin a superior double deck brig of 475 tons, called the "Abbie Clifford," owned by the builders and others and Capt. E. W. Clifford, who will command her. She is designed for the general freighting business—was built of the best material and in the best workmanlike manner, is copper fastened throughout and coppered, is of very large capacity, and will in every way do credit to her builders. She will proceed to load at once at Stockton for Rio Janeiro.

—The Press says that Mr. Albert Smart, foreman of the masonry work at Ft. Gorges, was seriously if not fatally injured on Friday last, by the falling of a derrick.

—The Argus correspondent states that the new steamboat wharf at Millbridge will soon be completed—that J. W. Dresser Esq. and Perkins & Co. of Castine, have just commenced a schooner of 250 tons—and that the Castine Brick Company have commenced work and are to have seven brick machines, employing 25 men. They will turn out about 2,000,000 bricks this season. They have built a wharf 310 feet long.

—An Irishman has been sent to jail for thirty days in Portland for stealing stakes—not beef steaks, but stakes from the platform cars of the P. & K. Railroad. A large business in that small kind of stealing is carried on there, and the company has properly determined to break it up.

—The Sunrise says the freshet is bringing down the lumber to the mills in Presque Isle. Several acres of excellent lumber is already in the boom. There are logs enough in the stream to fill it completely full for five or six miles.

—We find in the Oxford Democrat that Clark & Co. intend to repair their starch factory at Andover, and the farmers are preparing to supply with the usual amount of potatoes. It was supplied with about 25,000 bushels last year.

—The Rockland Democrat reports an unusual case occurring in that city. Mrs. Sarah Gilchrist, an old lady of 88 years, while living alone in January, fell on an icy floor and broke her leg just above the ankle joint. Strange to say she got well, and is now able to walk without the aid of a cane, doing the housework all alone.

—The Washington correspondent of the Boston Herald says President Johnson, in a conversation on Thursday, said that he should take a sea voyage in June, and stop at Boston for a few days, and perhaps extend his trip to Portland. He added that he could fix on no particular time, but should go and come by water in a Government vessel.

—The Machias Union says F. A. Grace of Harrington, a blacksmith, had his hand much injured a few days since. He placed a chisel in the fire without removing the handle, and the heat forced the handle off with great violence and with quite an explosion. He had a narrow escape from a serious if not a fatal accident.

—Capt. Charles Barnard, A. Q. M., formerly of Bucksport, has been assigned to duty in the Fifth Military District, in charge of the military cemeteries. He reports to brevet Brig. Gen'l Sawtelle, Chief Quartermaster, New Orleans.

—Referring to the late Jacob McGlaflin, Esq., the Bangor correspondent of the Boston Advertiser relates the following:

While in the quiet years of his practice at Fryeburg, he made the acquaintance of Daniel Webster, then principal of the academy at that place, and a most intimate friendship grew up between them, which was interrupted until death intervened. Shapes of a Soul.

White with the starlight folded on the wings,
And nestling timidly against your love,
For it is soft time of hushed and glimmering things,
You call my soul a dove, a mourn dove.

If I shall ask you in some shining hour,
When bees and odors through the clear air pass,
You'll say my soul buds as a small flushed flower,
Far off, half-hiding in the old home grass.

Ah, pretty names for pretty moods, and you,
Who love me, such sweet shapes as these can see
But, take it from its sphere of bloom and dew,
And where will then your bird or blossom be!

Could you but see it, by life's torid light,
Crouch in its nests and place with red fire wrath,
My soul would seem a tiger fierce and bright,
Among the trembling passions in its path.

And could you sometime watch it coil and slide,
And drag its colors in the air awhile,
And rise its poison under foot, and hide,
My soul would seem a snake—ah, do not smile!

Yet fairer forms and viler it can wear,
No matter though when these are of the past,
If, as a lamb in the Good Shepherd's care,
By the still waters it lie down at last.

"My Ribbon Blue."

He stole from its nest, in my golden hair,
A knot of ribbon blue;
He placed on my hand a jewel rare,
And whispered soft as he held it there,
Tender and true—
Adieu! adieu!

The almond was bending with blossoms white,
The roses blushed through the dew;
The violet smiled in the glowing light,
And life was happy and hope was bright:
Tender and true—
Adieu! adieu!

They brought my soldier home to me,
And my knot of ribbon blue;
But the cruel wound on his brow was hid,
By the flag draped over the coffin lid:
Tender and true—
Adieu! adieu!

The almond flowers in the breezes shake;
The roses still blush through the dew;
But the springtime of hope can never awake,
And tall lone, lone heart will wait till it break:
Tender and true—
Adieu! adieu!

Terrible Adventure in Iceland.

Mount Hecla, on the island of Iceland, is slightly under a mile in height. It has three peaks, a little elevated above its body, and along its sides are numerous craters, the seats of former eruptions. The crater of the principal peak is about one hundred feet in depth. It is composed solely of basalt and lava, but slugs and ashes cover a great part of its surface, and obsidian is among its most remarkable products.

There have been forty-three eruptions of Mt. Hecla recorded within the last thousand years, five of which have been simultaneous with Vesuvius, four with those of Etna, and one with those of both.

The last eruption began September 2, 1845, and lasted until April 6, 1846. On the 23rd of November, the torrent of lava, two miles from the crater, was a mile in width, and from forty to fifty feet in depth.

Carl Steinman visited Hecla just previous to this terrific eruption, and had one of the narrowest escapes from a horrible death that ever befel an adventurous man.

We give his narrative almost his own words:

On the next morning after my arrival at the small village at the foot of the volcano, I engaged a guide, a faithful, honest fellow, and set out for a visit to the noted crator.

From the very first, it seemed as if I had passed the confines and was entering a new world, so entirely different was the scenery.

As you press upward toward the focus of all the horror of burning stuff, you find the peril, dreariness, and desolation increases until, at length, when you stand on the topmost point of chaos, you instinctively raise your heart to God, with a shudder of terror to restore you to the great living world that you have left behind you.

For six mortal hours—three on horseback and three on foot—I had been clambering upward from the lower world, and, now, among the clouds and mists that rolled around me, I stood in a world of lava mountains, ice and snow, the lava black as ink, the snow of dazzling whiteness, and not, in all the region, the slightest brush, shrub, plant, or living creature except the guide and myself.

As far as the eye could discern, when the sweeping clouds afforded a view, was a succession of dark hills, glistening glaciers, snow-capped peaks and frozen streams—a world devoid of life, the awful solitude of death—filled with gaping caverns, terrific abysses, and Stygian caves, which echoed only the sullen reverberations of thunder or the groaning of the troubled earth beneath.

So impressive was the scene that I felt a strange chill creeping through me, and I shouted to break the horrible stillness, which was more awe-inspiring than the thunders of a thousand Niagaras. I frequently found myself imagining that I was dreaming, and I was only assured by pinching my limbs or conversing with my guide.

Drawing my blanket around me to shelter from the chilling atmosphere, and carefully puncturing the ground with my sharp-pointed stick before me, to make sure of my footsteps, I began to pick my way over piles and heaps of lava, and pitfalls and patches of ice and snow, my guide keeping near me, and often warning me when he thought my footsteps were leading me into danger.

Occasionally I struck the fragments of lava that rolled down behind me and as yet discovered no signs of the crater, which 80 years before had vomited forth its tremendous volumes of melted black sand. At length, however, I reached the summit, and looked into a sort of basin, open at the lower side, and having several deep seams or chasms in the center, into which the melted snow and ice were running in small streams. A repulsive odor in shape of a thin, smoky vapor came up, and I fancied I heard a distant rumbling noise that sounded far down in the earth.

I turned to my guide, and was about to speak, when I observed that he was trembling and was as pale as death.

'What's the matter?' I asked; 'You seem to be frightened.'

'Oh, my God!' he gasped, 'there's going to be another eruption.'

'How do you know that? Have you ever been here before?'

'Yes; but I never saw it like this. When I was here last there was no hollow there but only a level piece of snow and ice.

'Indeed! exclaimed with interest; 'and you judge that fact to be decisive with regard to an eruption!'

'Oh my master' said he in the greatest agony, 'what else could have caused this change? There must be fire below; or what has melted this glacier.' You see the ice is nearly gone, and what is left is fast melting, and will soon follow it.'

'How is this?' I enquired.

He shook his head.

'All wrong; there's trouble brew ng master, as sure as you live. You had better leave.'

I recalled the fact that the last eruption of Hecla occurred 80 years before, long previous to the birth of my guide, and consequently he could know as little of that as I did. This foolish thought prevented me from putting the faith in his words that I ought to have done.

'There is no hurry,' I replied, 'I have been so long finding my way to the top, that I am hardly disposed to leave until I have seen more of the volcano.

I observed his paleness and trembling increase, if possible, but I still felt a reluctance to retreat so ignominiously, after toiling so hard to make the summit.

He stood a moment in silence, and then ventured again.

'Let us go while there is time. I am afraid to remain here. We may be overwhelmed at any moment.'

'Hold on!' said I feeling a curious fascination, such as sometimes comes over one when on the brink of the most appalling peril. 'It is true the ice has melted, but it has done so gradually. I have spent a great deal of time to reach Iceland, and when I started I was with the resolve to see Hecla.'

'Heaven knows I have seen too much already,' he replied; 'more than has ever been seen before by living man.'

'How do you know that?' I demanded, somewhat nettled at the dogmatical manner of my guide.

'At least I think so.'

'And I think you are mistaken. I cannot consent to go back until I have descended into this hole and looked down into one of these chasms.'

'Let me beseech you, do not. It will be the ruin of you.'

'If you should, you can return and I, in my confusion, then, for which, I shall be no more responsible.'

'Why, sir, the quake, it will not distur[illegible]

'All I ask then, is that you will merely wait for me.'

I had no right to ask even that, and I consider the guide a simpleton, because he heeded my request.

'I will wait,' he replied; 'but remember when you go down, that I kept entreating you not to do so.'

'I hold you blameless, whatever should occur, so have no apprehensions upon that score.'

The crater was about twenty yards in depth, with sides that sloped so gradually, that it could be descended without difficulty, if ordinary care was only exercised.

I first felt the lava, and found it quite hot, but not unpleasantly so, and using my stick with great precaution, I began the descent. I observed the temperature of the lava beneath my feet constantly to increase, but I had thick shoes and knew they would be unharmed.

I noticed, also, a thick sulphurous odor, but considered this nothing unusual, although it left a thick, disagreeable taste in my mouth and gave an unpleasant twinge to my olfactories.

The rill of water made by the melting ice flowed hissing down, and was lost to view in the dark chasm, from which came puffs of hot air, accompanied by a rumbling and trembling of the ground.

The place, the scene, and withal the sense of danger connected with it, held me there by a magnetic fascination, and I soon found myself strongly tempted to make a fatal plunge into the awful abyss. Conscious that reason frequently loses her power at such times, I forced myself backward a few feet, but still remained fascinated near the opening, heedless of the frantic entreaties of my guide.

Giving no heed, therefore, to his earnest solicitations, I now determined if possible to sound the depths of the cavern before me and then proceed to examine the other.

For this purpose I pulled off a small piece of lava, and stepping to the very edge of the chasm, dropped it down and listened to the hollow reverberation, as it went bounding from side to side, long after it was lost to the eye.

The depth was so immense that I heard it for fully a minute, and then, the sound seemed rather to die out from distance, than to cease from the block having reached its destination. It was a terrible depth, and as I drew back with a shudder, a gust of hot sulphurous air puffed upward, followed immediately by a steam-like vapor, and a heavy hollow boom, as if a piece of ordnance had been discharged in the bowels of the mountain.

By this time I had regained my common sense, and became impressed with the danger that hung over me. I turned to fly, when all at once there came a rumbling crash, and the ground heave ng, and shaking and rolling under me, began to crumble off into the dread abyss.

I was thrown down, and on my hands and knees, praying to God for mercy, was scrambling over it, and upward, to leave myself from a most horrible fate, when two blocks rolling together, caught my feet and legs between them, and, without actually crushing, held them as in a vice. Then came another crash and crumble, the lava slid away from behind me, and I was left upon the very verge of the awful gulf, now widened to some fifteen or twenty feet, down into which I looked with horror-strained eyes, only to see darkness and death below, and breathe the almost suffocating vapors that rushed up from that seemingly bottomless pit.

Oh, the horrors of that awful realization! What pen or tongue can portray them! There, over the mouth of a black and heated abyss, I was held suspended, a helpless and conscious prisoner to be hurled downward by the next great throw of rumbling nature.

'Help! help! help!—for the love of God, help!' I shrieked in the very agony of my despair.

I looked up and around to catch sight of my guide, but he, with a commendable prudence I could but admit in my dire extremity, had sought his own safety in flight.

I had nothing to rely upon but the mercy of heaven, and I prayed to God as I had never prayed to Him before for a forgiveness of my sins; that they might not follow me to judgment.

It might be a second, it might be a minute, it might be an hour that I should have to undergo a living death; but to the time long or short, I felt that there was no escape from a doom which even now makes me grow pale and shudder when I think of it.

Above me was a clear blue sky—beneath me a black and horrible abyss—around me sickening vapors that made my brain grow dizzy. Rumbling and hissing sounds warned me that another convulsion might take place at any moment, and another would be the last of me. Home and friends I should never see again, and my tomb would be the volcanic Hecla!

All at once I heard a shout, and, looking around, I beheld, with feelings that cannot be described, my faithful guide, hastening down the sides of the fatal crater to my relief. He had fled in terror at the first ominous demonstration but had only returned to save me, if possible, by risking his life for mine.

'I warned you, master,' said he, as he came up, his eyes starting and his countenance expressive of commiseration and terror.

'You did!'—cried I, 'but forgive and save me, for I am perishing!'

'I will save you if I can, or perish with you!'

The noble fellow instantly set to work with his iron-pointed stick to break this lava around my limbs, but scarcely had made any progress when the earth again tumbled, and the rocks parted, one of them rolling down the chasm with a dull, booming sound.

I sprang forward—seized a hand of the guide—we both struggled desperately, and the next moment we had both fallen, locked in each other's arms, upon the solid earth above. I was free, but still upon the verge of the pit, and any moment might see us both hurried to destruction.

Quick! quick!—there's not a moment to lose,' cried the guide. 'Up, up! and run for your life!'

I staggered to my feet with a wild cry of hope and fear, and half carried by my faithful companion, hurried up the sloping sides of the crater.

As we reached the ridge above, the ground shook with a heavy explosion, and looking back, I saw with horror which no pen can depict, the dark, smoking pit where we had just lately stood. Without waiting to see more I turned, and fled over the rough ground as fast as my bruised limbs would permit.

We reached our horses in safety, and hurrying down the mountains gave the alarm to the villagers who joined us in our flight across the country till a safe distance was gained.

A few days later, when the mighty and long extinct Hecla was convulsing the island, and pouring forth tremendous volleys of melted lava, I was far out upon the Atlantic, on my way home, where I devout y thanked God again that I had lived to tell my wonderful escape from death in its burning crater.

Dr. Schenck, the Lung Doctor.

The Proprietor of SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, the inventor of SCHENCK'S RESPIROMETER, the only instrument that can to a certainty detect the slightest murmur of the respiratory organs.

This is of great importance to Dr. SCHENCK, to know the exact condition of the lungs, whether it is Tuberculous, Pulmonary, Bronchial, Pleuritic or Dyspeptic Consumption, and whether it is both lungs or only one that are diseased.

It requires constant and long practice to become familiar with every sound or rattling of a diseased bronchial tube. Patients come to Dr. SCHENCK to get examined that have been examined by their family physician, who told them that their lungs were almost gone; when by a close examination with the Respirometer, it is often found that it is an affection of the bronchial tubes and by getting a healthy action of the liver and tone of the stomach, the sufferer is soon restored to health. Sometimes medicine that will stop a cough, is certain death to the patient. It locks up the fever, stops the circulation of the blood—hemorrhage flows, and, in fact, stopping the action of the very organs that caused the cough.

Dr. Schenck will be professionally at his rooms every week, 32 Bond Street, New York, and 35 Hanover street, Boston, for a thorough examination of the lungs, for which he will receive his fee only when he gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer, the charge is $5. His medicines are for sale by all druggists and dealers, also, a full supply, at all times at his rooms. The best Salve ever invented for SWOLLEN BREASTS and SORE NIPPLES. No way injurious, but sure to afford relief. For SORE or WEAK EYES—rub it on the lids gently, once or twice a day. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILL.

A Certain Cure for Disease of Liver and the many Dangerous Maladies which are caused by a morbid condition of that organ.

To give the public a clear understanding of the mode in which SCHENCK'S Mandrake Pills produce those wonderful effects which are recorded by thousands of reliable witnesses, we present a brief and its functions, which will make the operation of this popular medicine perceptible to every man's understanding.

The liver is supplied with blood vessels, nerves and absorbents. One of the obvious uses is to secrete and prepare the bile. It likewise filters the blood and separates that fluid from all impurities, which indispensably necessary to health is the proper performance of this function! If the liver is diseased, it cannot purify the blood, and if that is sent back through the lungs, brain and other parts in a morbid condition, it must cause jaundice, biliousness, obstruction of the kidneys, gravel, and many other complaints more or less painful and dangerous, but the least of them quite enough to make a man sick and uncomfortable, and unfit for the performance of any of the duties of life. This unhealthy state of the system very often ends in pulmonary consumption.

The circulation of the blood is conducted in this manner:—The heart sends the vital current down through the arteries; it passes through the flesh, taking up all impurities in its progress then the stream of blood is returned through the veins, and passes to the liver to be purified. It is impossible to cure consumption, scrofula, or scarcely any other kind of ulceration while that important organ, the liver, is diseased. It is for that reason that "regular physicians" rarely cure consumption.—They usually begin their treatment with the use of some strong medicine, the basis of which is morphine or opium in some shape, which looks up the liver instead of relaxing the secretions, giving a tone to the stomach, and producing a healthy flow of bile. Dr. Schenck's will strengthen the system, purify the blood, and ripen and heal ulcers on the lungs.

A volume would be required, to give a brief account of the remarkable cures performed by Dr. Schenck's medicines, viz: Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills—all of which are accompanied by full directions for professionally at his rooms every week, 32 Bond street, New York, and 35 Hanover street, Boston, from 9 A. M. until 3 P. M. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer the charge is five (5) dollars. His medicines are for sale by all druggists and dealers. Also, a full supply at all times at his rooms. Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents per box.

Dr. Schenck on Dyspepsia.

SYMPTOMS, CAUSES AND REMEDY.

Symptoms of Dyspepsia—A sense of fullness, tightness, and weight in the stomach, together with flatulency, acidity, nausea, offensive belching of wind, water-brash and vomiting, and a great deal of what a person calls an all-gone feeling at the pit of the stomach; frequently there is also a palpitation of the heart, which physicians mistake for heart disease, and when the stomach is in this condition it is coated with a mucous or slime. The rough throat portion of the stomach, similar to the throat of a sheep, is what throws out the gastric juice, and when the stomach gets a thick coat of slime on it, it prevents the gastric juice from flowing, and digestion ceases. Schenck's seaweed tonic dissolves this mucus or slime, and restores the stomach to its natural condition.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills are also required to carry off this morbid matter. Two-thirds of the cases of Consumption are caused from this diseased state of the stomach; the liver becoming torpid, it ceases to throw out bile, and in a short time the whole system is deranged. The mucous membrane of the bronchial tubes sympathises with the other organs, and before the patient is aware of it, he or she has Bronchial or Pulmonary Consumption.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup cannot act freely thro' the blood when the system is in this locked-up condition, without the aid of the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills. The Liver has all of the venous blood to strain, and when it acts in a morbid condition, blood and bile run through the system mixed, and the whole body becomes so low, and the blood so thick it can hardly run through the veins. In a majority of cases hemorrhages come from the chest, or expectoration of blood. The Mandrake Pills act on the Liver similar to calomel, or they do what that does—it unlocks the gall bladders, starts the bile, and the blood begins to circulate naturally through the veins, and the hemorrhages cease. If, when persons are attacked with hemorrhage, they would first take a good purgative, something that would act on the liver, they would seldom be troubled from bleeding from the lungs, and it is the only way, for astringents are only temporary, as it irritate the mucous membranes, and lay the ground work for consumption.
